

ABOUT US

- Founded through the merger of three acute care hospitals in 1996, Charlton Memorial Hospital in Fall River (1885), St. Luke's Hospital in New Bedford (1884) and Tobey Hospital in Wareham (1938), Southcoast Health is a not-for-profit, fully integrated, community-based health system headquartered in Southeastern Massachusetts, and the largest provider of primary and specialty care in the region.
- Southcoast Health is the largest employer headquartered in Southeastern Massachusetts, and one of the largest employers in the Commonwealth, employing more than 7,500 skilled and caring individuals across our system of care.
- Our primary and secondary service areas include more than 724,000 residents in 33 communities covering over 900 square miles in Southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Our Promise is to provide Exceptional Care from People Who Care, embracing the importance of delivering the best clinical care and service. As a community health system of the community and for the community, we proudly lead and convene important initiatives that eliminate the barriers that allow access to quality care.
- Our services are conveniently located throughout Southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island, with three acute care hospitals in Fall River, New Bedford and Wareham, two Centers for Cancer Care in Fall River and Fairhaven, six Urgent Care Centers in Dartmouth, Fairhaven, Fall River, Lakeville, Seekonk and Wareham, a visiting nurse and home health association, and physician offices and ambulatory facilities located conveniently and strategically throughout our region.
- St. Luke's Hospital in New Bedford is the lone Level II Trauma Center located in Southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod. Today, instead of traveling to Rhode Island or Boston, patients suffering from traumatic injuries now receive lifesaving interventions right here at home.
- When you visit Southcoast Health, you will receive the best care, plus something More. We deliver an unmatched combination of clinical excellence with a personal touch. Our providers, nurses, and staff chose Southcoast Health so they can bring high-quality care to the communities they call home.
